Tiger Truck ... promoting a Greener America

by offering efficient, environmentally-sensitive and economical vehicles, while helping to reduce our dependence on foreign oil.

There are numerous high tech modifications between a regular Tiger vehicle and a Tiger Flexible Fuel Vehicle (FFV). Tiger's FFV has a single fuel system, but operates on multiple fuel blends. The usable fuels include unleaded gasoline, as well as an alcohol fuel (usually ethanol) in any mixture up to a maximum of 85% ethanol, referred to as E85. With an octane rating of 105, E85 provides a boost in engine horsepower.

Standard features include an FFV (Flexible Fuel Vehicle) 4 cylinder 4 stroke O.H.C. 995 cc engine, electronic fuel injection, 8.8:1 compression ratio, manual transmission (5 forward, 1 reverse), front struts, rear coil springs with shocks, 12 volt/45 amp/hr. battery, 70 amp alternator, rack and pinion steering, A.B.S. mechanical braking (disk-front, drum-rear), AM/FM radio/cassette, digital clock, power port, left and right outside mirrors, halogen headlights, 3-speed wipers, self-canceling turn signals, adjustable driver seat, heater/defroster, seat belts, front and rear fog lights.
